

Pinay Seeks Support As France's Premier

PARIS (AP)—Antoine Pinay, a conservative who once said he would "never go back into that bear cage," sought support today for his second term as French premier.

The 63-year-old owner of a small-town tannery agreed last night to try to form France's 21st postwar government, succeeding the Cabinet of Pierre Mendes-France. Pinay told newsmen he hoped to have his list of prospective ministers ready by Thursday.

One of the longer-lived of France's numerous postwar premiers, Pinay headed the government for 9½ months in 1952. He won considerable personal popularity with his conservative "save the franc" fiscal policy, which checked rising prices though it did not solve France's basic economic ills. Facing three confidence votes and considered certain to lose all of them, he resigned Dec. 23, 1952 and vowed never again.

Backbone of Opposition
He tried again to form a government, however, during the record

37-day government crisis in the summer of 1953, but failed.

Otherwise, he has been on the sidelines. A prim, almost dour little man, he rarely spoke in the Assembly but was a powerful voice in his Independent Republican party and a stubborn opponent of Mendes-France.

His party and the MRP were the backbone of the last Premier's opposition. When the Communists, a bloc of Mendes-France's own Radical Socialists, and some of the Gaullists joined them in voting against the Premier's North African policy Saturday morning, the Cabinet fell after 7½ months in office.

Pinay today began conferences with leaders of the Assembly's numerous non-Communist factions, seeking their support.

Won't Stay Long
There was considerable feeling that the next premier would last only a few months, being kept in office chiefly to clear up a number of urgent problems awaiting action.

Chief of these are the Paris treaties to rearm West Germany, which have been approved by the Assembly but await ratification by the Council of the Republic, Parliament's upper house.

Pinay supported the European Defense Community plan, which the Assembly killed last summer with Mendes-France's tacit approval. Pinay abstained in the Assembly vote on the Paris rearmament treaties — which Mendes-France had negotiated — but this was attributed to his deep antagonism toward the Premier rather than outright hostility to German rearmament.

Lodge Bringing Latest Formosa Plans To U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—New U. N. Security Council moves on the Formosa cease-fire question hinged today on plans brought back from Washington by U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

Delegations recessed consultations over Sunday while they waited for a clue to U. S. intentions. Lodge announced after a Saturday breakfast with President Eisenhower that the U. S. program would be made known by midweek.

Victor A. Belaunde, Peruvian president of the council this month, said the talks today and Tuesday would determine when the next council meeting will be held. He said the weekend had produced no clear agreement on what the next step should be.

The New York Times in a dispatch from Washington said the United States would urge the U. N. to send a "peace observation" mission to Formosa and the Pescadores to report on any aggressive action in the area. The Times said the Americans, assuming that the Soviet Union would veto any cease-fire or peace observation resolution in the Security Council, were trying to arrange for the veto-free General Assembly or the interim "Little Assembly" to send the observers.

Evacuation Started In Tachen Islands

Brooklyn Bunko Artist's Career Ended In Death

BALTIMORE (AP)—The case of Edgar Fassburg of Brooklyn, N. Y., confidence man, draft dodger and impostor who carried his last pose right through to his own self-inflicted death has ended here and the file sent to New York police.

Sunday officers spent four hours explaining to Fassburg's wife that he was not Dr. Edward James Phillips — as she and many others apparently had believed for more than two years — but a man who never graduated from high school.

Dinner Called Off
He was not a brigadier general in the Army Medical Corps, but a man known to the Federal Bureau of Investigation as an experienced bunko artist who had at various times passed as a lawyer and Marine officer as well as a physician.

Fassburg died Wednesday of an overdose of a barbiturate, and the death was ruled a suicide. Before he died, he Telegraphed a friend, Dr. Edna Guttenstein, that a testimonial dinner which was supposed to have been given for him in New York had been given for him in New York. He had been called "a guest speaker" and signed the telegram with the name of a "guest speaker."

Telephoned his wife 17 minutes later that the dinner was called off because the "guest speaker" had died.

Then a few hours later, he killed himself.

Fooled Two Women
It took police until Saturday night to unravel the mystery of "Dr. Phillips" identity, with the help of an FBI fingerprint check.

Mrs. Phillips, who married Phillips Aug. 30, 1952, told police he was a "very lovely and wonderful person." He left for work at Governor's Island every morning, she said, and talked of his medical duties convincingly.

The FBI said that Fassburg evidently had fooled another woman. He was married previously under the name of Dr. Edgar Allen Lowe, but it was annulled when she learned of his true identity.

The federal agents said Fassburg usually carried white uniforms and medical books to further his career as a doctor and sported a Phi Beta Kappa key. He was a convincing speaker on psychology, music, medicine and military science, they added.

Slayer Heirens Seeks Freedom
CHICAGO (AP)—William G. Heirens, 26-year-old slayer of 2 women and a girl some nine years ago, is making another move toward freedom.

Herbert M. Wetzel, attorney for the slayer, said Saturday he has appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court to reverse a decision of the Illinois Supreme Court refusing Heirens a new trial.

Heirens, a former University of Chicago student, was convicted for the murders of Suzanne Degnan, 6, Frances Brown, 33, and Mrs. Josephine Ross, 43, in 1945 and 1946. He is serving consecutive life sentences in Stateville penitentiary at Joliet.

Heirens claimed his rights under the federal Constitution were violated during his trial.

Total Of 41,688 Must Be Removed From Red China's Doorstep

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Chinese Nationalist evacuation of the Tachens and other islands just off Red China's doorstep involves removal of an estimated total of 41,688 people — Troops, guerrillas and civilians.

The difficulty of the operation, protected and aided by the U. S. 7th Fleet, is illustrated by the Tachens, where tides running 16 to 18 feet on the rocky beaches are expected to cut loading time to six hours daily.

Much Heavy Equipment
The two islands, Upper and Lower Tachen, lie 200 miles north of Formosa, 14 miles off the Red China coast. They have been the northern anchor of Chiang Kai-shek's defense perimeter. They are the little more than 13 square miles in area, with few landing beaches.

Besides the estimated 15,000 troops and the same number of civilians to be taken off the Tachens, a huge amount of heavy equipment must be moved. It was taken to the rocky islands over a long period of time for long-term defense and some of it will be hard to take off over limited beaches.

Chinese press reports today said many Tachen islanders, although preferring to leave rather than live under the Communists, were putting up placards on their doors: "We are gone but we will come back before long."

Others Under Attack
Reports from Formosa still do not spell out precisely which of the other islands are to be evacuated, but Associated Press Correspondent Fred Hampson radioed from Taipei that the Nationalists also are withdrawing from Yu Shan and Pishan islands. Yu Shan is a group 35 miles northeast of the Tachens and like them has been under Red attack from the sea. Latest reports put its civilian fishing population at 500 with a garrison of 850 guerrillas. Pishan is 32 miles southwest of the Tachens, a base for past guerrilla raids on the mainland 12 miles away. Its last reported civilian population was 1,173, with a guerrilla garrison of 2,400.

Nationalists Will Attack Mainland Next, Says Chiang

TAIPEI (AP)—Chinese Nationalist of the government information office.

The generalissimo expressed gratitude for "the broad assistance and protective cover in the execution of our evacuation plan so generously rendered us by the United States government."

Chiang, in a written statement, said evacuation was a "painful decision," but the latest military developments had made the Tachens lose their military value.

"The most important task of the government forces is to counter-attack the Communists and recover the mainland," Chiang said. "Under the present military situation our government forces, in order to conserve their counterattack potential, should under no circumstance be allowed to be dissipated at such a time and place as the enemy might choose."

Chiang's pronouncement was the first he has made on the offshore island crisis since the Reds invaded Yikiangshan Jan. 18.

It was read to a crowded news conference by Wu Nan-ju, director of the government information office.

American Ships Not Molested By Communists

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A formidable U. S. Navy task force stood protectively around the Communist-threatened Tachens today covering the evacuation of some 30,000 Chinese Nationalist troops and civilians — while two Red torpedo boats cruised 17 miles away.

A patrol party of U. S. Marines went ashore.

The evacuation was well underway tonight. Reports from the American ships were hours behind those reaching this Nationalist Capital, but they indicated there was no Communist interference.

Torpedo Boats Spotted
There was no sign of activity on Communist-held Yikiangshan, eight miles to the north of upper Tachen Island.

Associated Press Correspondent Jim Becker, aboard the flagship Estes anchored off the Tachens, reported "The Communist torpedo boats were spotted by air, but officers aboard the Estes said it is customary to see them in that area."

The torpedo boats made no sign of moving southward.

Helicopters were hovering over the fleet. Signal blinkers flashed in the dim light.

Becker had sent this earlier report:

"Cruisers and destroyers bobbed at anchor in the choppy blue-green waters, within sight of the low, brown and craggy islands."

Red Mines Hunted
Nationalist and U. S. minesweepers combed a path through waters known to be infested with Communist-strewn mines, while underwater demolition teams probed the icy, angry waters for mines, obstructions and the ruins of wrecked ships.

"An occasional American plane from a nearby carrier dips through the bleak overcast to eye the armada, then returns to its guard post."

Nationalist sources reported that an advance guard of U. S. and Nationalist forces got the evacuation underway Sunday night, while ships of the U. S. 7th Fleet were still some distance away from the threatened islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

The first evacuation ships are not expected to arrive in Keelung Harbor, Formosa, before Tuesday (late Monday, U. S. time).

Red China's Peiping radio called the U. S. decision to help evacuate the Tachens a "war provocation . . . fraught with the danger of starting a major war." The broadcast said the Red army was "closely watching the development of this situation."

May Take 10 Days
AP Correspondent Forrest Edwards, aboard the carrier Yorktown, said Navy Banshee jets roared off carrier decks shortly before midnight to fly patrol over the Tachens.

The evacuation was expected to take from 7 to 10 days.

Becker reported a strong Amphibious task force had joined the 7th Fleet for the operation. Under command of Rear Adm. Lorenzo Sherwood Sabin Jr., a tough Texan, the amphibious force steamed into Formosan waters from Saigon, where it had evacuated Indochinese from North to South Viet Nam.

"If I am fired upon I will fire back," Sabin said. "If we are in there evacuating when they are firing on us, we will assume they are firing on us."

"We must be prepared for any eventuality," Sabin told his forces. "Be alert. Be on guard and keep your heads. We have a job to do and we will do it."

Sabin emphasized his force was not looking for a fight.

Becker said the 7th Fleet armada coursing off the China coast was made up of 75 warships.

Six Fast Carriers
Navy sources in Washington were more specific. They listed 6 fast carriers — the Midway, Wasp, Kearsarge, Essex, Yorktown and Princeton — 2 cruisers, 15 destroyers, 5 submarines and 15 mine sweepers among the combat ships.

The Tachens area has been mined by Communists, fleet sources said. Underwater demolition teams and mine sweepers were assigned to patrol the area.

The evacuation of the Tachens loomed as a tough chore, even without Communist opposition.

Michigan Pilot Leads Jets In Bagging 2 Migs

MUSKEGON (AP)—A Michigan airman has been identified as the leader of the Sabrejet squadron that downed two Russian-built MIG15 jet planes in an aerial clash off North Korea Saturday.

The U. S. Far East Air Force said Capt. John K. Kimball of Muskegon led 12 Sabrejets against eight Communist MIGs in the biggest air action since the Korean War.

The Air Force said the U. S. planes were escorting an RB45 jet reconnaissance plane on a routine mission "over international waters west of Korea" when they were jumped by the MIGs.

Two of the Communist craft were shot down over the Yellow Sea. All the Sabrejets returned to base.

In Muskegon, Merritt Kimball, father of the 30-year-old squadron leader, said:

"Oddly enough, we got a letter from Jack recently telling us the MIGs never attack the U. S. patrol planes if they know the Sabres are up."

"It didn't happen that way this time," the elder Kimball said.

"My son was trained to do just what he did Saturday," Kimball said, "and we're no more surprised it's him than anyone else."

Kimball said his wife, "a little concerned, but I guess that's natural for any mother. We have a lot of faith in Jack."

John Kimball joined the Army in 1943 after a semester at Michigan Tech at Houghton. He won a commission to West Point during World War II and entered the Air Force after graduating from the military academy in 1946.

Since then he has flown fighter planes in Alaska, Korea and Japan. His wife and two children live at Yoakum, Tex.

State Legislators Sound Out Home Folks On Highway Bills

LANSING — Michigan legislators were in home territory today, starting the fifth week of their 1955 session by sounding out constituents on the best way to improve the state's highway system.

The Legislature recessed Friday and will not return until Tuesday night. The long recess was called to give Republicans a chance to attend the county conventions to-night.

Meanwhile, Democratic leaders were counting noses in hopes of killing in the House the highway program of Rep. Emil Peltz (R-Rogers City).

With a breakdown of 58 Republicans and 51 Democrats, House Republicans will need every vote they can get to swing the Peltz proposal, which calls for a two-cent gas tax increase, part of it to finance local road bond issues.

Democrats figure they can beat the plan by sticking together and picking up four Republican votes.

Two Republicans, Reps. James Goulette, Iron Mountain, and Leonard E. Wood, Detroit, have signed the Democrats' road bill, which

Sonja's Party Dazzles Filmland

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film town's cafe society today voted Sonja Henie the hostess with the mostest after her circus party that dazzled the Sunset Strip.

Miss Henie commandeered Ciro's Saturday night for an estimated $15,000. Dressed in a scanty trapeze costume of pink and spangles plus her brilliant diamonds, the skating star treated 200 guests to a fillet mignon dinner and all the French champagne they could drink.

The filmsters had the time of their lives. James Mason came as a genteel clown with a nose that flashed a red light. Mrs. Mason was a bearded lady, as were Benay Venuta and Lita Baron (Mrs. Rory Calhoun).

Esther Williams won a magnet of champagne for the best costume; she was a Persian mind reader with a goldfish bowl as a crystal ball. Mrs. Reginald Gardiner arrived as "Marilyn the sexy seal," flippers and all. Zsa Zsa Gabor seemed well cast as Vampirella, the TV menace. Peggy Lee was a realistic tattooed lady in a skin-tight jersey.

No expense was spared for the circus motif. Miss Henie supplied a live hippo, calliope, cotton candy, side show posters, clowns and acrobats. Said one veteran party goer:

"It's just like the old days." Asked the reason for her party Miss Henie said: "No reason. I just felt like having a party."

Shot By Bartender
DETROIT (AP)—Charles R. Bogle, 25, was shot to death Sunday night as he climbed over a bar counter with an open knife, police reported.

Norman Cohen, 41, bartender and co-owner of the bar, said he fired when Bogle threatened him after he refused to sell Bogle whisky because of the Sunday law. Cohen was not held.

proposes a half-cent gas tax increase and a 25 per cent weight tax increase to finance a 500 million dollar bond issue.

Republican leaders say the Peltz bill should be ready for a vote in the House Thursday. Debate is expected to start tomorrow night or Wednesday.

Democrats and Republicans concede there is a good possibility neither bill will muster the two-thirds majority necessary to get on the ballot at the April 4 election.

Mead Rejects City's Bid For Power Meeting

Mead Corporation attorneys in a letter to the Escanaba City Council, addressed to City Manager A. V. Aronson, rejected the Council's request for meeting to discuss the power contract situation in advance of a Public Service Commission rate hearing to be held in Escanaba Feb. 14.

The letter was received today by City Manager Aronson, who said that copies of the letter are being distributed to the Councilmen. He said the Mead Corporation attorneys wrote that they would be glad to meet with the Council after the Feb. 14 Public Service Commission hearing.

Rejection of the city's request for a meeting prior to the rate hearing is the latest development in a controversy concerning the legality of the city's wholesale electric contract with the Upper Michigan Power & Light Company, a Mead Corporation subsidiary.

The contract will not expire until Aug. 1, 1959. Mead Corporation claims it is losing money under the terms of the contract and that the contract is invalid. It seeks to have the contract invalidated and a new electric rate established, which would be more favorable to Mead.

The City Council has met previously with Mead officials, including H. E. Whitaker, president, and J. H. Cunningham, both of Chillicothe. The Council has refused to consent, however, to a request of the officials that the city enter into a new contract at a higher rate.

Following last Thursday's meeting of the Council, the city manager was directed to invite officials of the Mead Corporation to Escanaba for a meeting in advance of the Feb. 14 Public Service Commission hearing. The invitation to the meeting by the Council was made upon the advice and recommendation of the city attorney.

Sven Bjork Is Giving Concert At Stephenson

STEPHENSON — The Menominee County Christian Laymen's Association is now completing plans for its concert Wednesday evening, Feb. 9. This concert will be held in the Stephenson High School gymnasium, and will present the noted tenor Sven Bjork, formerly of Sweden.

Mr. Bjork was the soloist of the Swedish Pastors' Chorus which toured the country last fall. Rev. Edgar Swanson of the Bethlehem Covenant Church of Stephenson served as travel guide on that tour, and Sven Bjork comes here as a result of Pastor Swanson's suggestion to the board of the Laymen's Association.

More than two years ago Mr. Bjork came to this country for concert purposes. Because of the many invitations that have come to him he is undecided just when he will return to his homeland. Being a linguist he sings in several languages. Wednesday evening he will limit himself to the English and Scandinavian languages.

The men of the Laymen's Association extend a cordial invitation to everyone to attend the concert. Admission will be free. Joseph Staalson, chairman of the Laymen's Association, will serve as master of ceremonies, and Pastor Swanson will introduce the soloist.

Story Written By Mrs. Brown To Be Published

STEPHENSON — "Jack and Jill", a children's magazine published by the Curtis Publishing Company, last week purchased a children's story written by Mrs. Clifford Brown Jr. of this village. It will probably be printed within the next six months.

The story, "Surprise in a Coop," was one of three which Mrs. Brown wrote last summer as a term project for a Children's Literature Course which was taken at the University of Wisconsin.

Mrs. Brown is the librarian at the Stephenson High School. Branch Office Mrs. Warren Hubbard, who was recently named branch manager for the secretary of state in Stephenson, reports that she is now issuing license plates in the Hubbard Farm Supply office, located on US-41, south of Stephenson.

Ann Arbor Man, 33, Sentenced For Bank Holdup In Centreville

GRAND RAPIDS — Robert E. Leonard, 33, of Ann Arbor, was sentenced by Federal Judge W. Wallace Kent Friday to 7½ years in prison for his part in the $4,306 holdup of the Centreville State Bank last Oct. 21.

The judge noted that Leonard had no prior criminal record but said his offense did not warrant a lighter sentence.

Roy Kelley, 36, and George L. Glisson, 43, both also of Ann Arbor, have pleaded guilty and await sentencing.

May End Walkout

DETROIT — Members of Local 12270, District 50, of the United Mine Workers, were to meet today to hear a review of union efforts to end the week-old walkout at the Wyandotte Chemical Corp.'s suburban Detroit plant. The workers are on strike in a contract dispute.

Governor Cites U. P. Benefits Of His Plan For Road Bond Issue

LANSING — The Upper Peninsula "would benefit immensely" from the emergency program of four-lane arterial highways which he has suggested to the Legislature, Governor G. Mennen Williams said today.

The governor has suggested that the arterial highway system be constructed over a period of five to six years, with the proceeds of a $500,000,000 emergency road bond issue.

Although he still feels the bonds could be financed without any immediate increase in taxes, the governor yielded his own viewpoint to the extent of supporting a ½-cent increase in the gas tax, and a 25 per cent increase in truck weight taxes.

"Such a program," he said, "would distribute the cost more equitably and would raise sufficient money to retire the bonds without decreasing the present shares of cities and counties in the motor vehicle fund. It would also permit approximately the same amount of new construction work as we would otherwise do on state roads not included in the bond issue program."

Converge Near Grayling

The governor's plan contemplates the construction, in five or six years, of four-lane divided highways leading from Port Huron, Detroit, the Indiana and Ohio borders, South Bend and Chicago, to Sault Ste. Marie, via the Mackinac Bridge. Routes would converge near Grayling and follow the present US 27 across the Straits.

In addition, the plan would include cross-state four-lane routes along the present US 12 from Detroit to New Buffalo and the present US 16 from Detroit to Muskegon and Ludington.

The governor said: "These are the routes which Highway Department studies show to be carrying the heaviest traffic loads."

"Construction of such an arterial highway system would furnish the backbone of a new road network around which the rest of the state's highway needs could be met out of the normal annual revenues."

The governor said the Upper Peninsula would benefit from this program in two ways:

"First, the arterial highway system would bring traffic to the Mackinac Bridge and therefore to the Upper Peninsula. It seems to me the Upper Peninsula's first need is highways which will enable people to get across the Straits. Without such a system we will not realize the immense potential of the bridge in opening up the northern peninsula to the tourist trade and other new commerce and industry."

Other Funds Available

"Secondly, the financing program I suggest will leave about $15 or $16 million a year (on the basis of current revenues) to be spent on state trunk lines outside of the arterial system to be built with the bond issue. That is just about the same amount we would spend on these roads if we had no bond issue program. The usual proportions of that money will be devoted to construction in the Upper Peninsula.

"Thus, the U. P. is going to get out of this program two things it needs: (1) a network of new access roads from the south, converging on the bridge; and (2) better roads within the Peninsula for tourists to use when they have crossed the bridge."

"All projects presently planned for the U. P. would, of course, go ahead."

Expedite Road Program

The financing program suggested by the governor contemplates retiring the bond issue at the rate of about $31 million a year.

Approximately half of this would be realized from the proposed additional taxes. The other half would be taken out of the state's share of the motor vehicle highway fund. It is expected that the state's share next year will be about $67 million, of which about $31 million will be earmarked for new construction.

"By using half the $31 million for the bond issue, we will be able to build, in five years, the main arteries which otherwise would take 20 years," the governor said.

"If there were no bond issue program, we would have to spend at least $15 million out of annual revenues for construction on the main roads in the arterial program. That means we will have as much left each year for construction of other state roads as we would have anyhow."

Christmas Trees Are Big Business

LANSING — Michigan Christmas tree growers had a cheery season last year—to the tune of some $5 million, the State Agriculture Department said.

A report on Christmas tree sales said very few trees were left over in Michigan cities.

In Detroit, the report said, some 10,000 trees were in dealers hands after Christmas. About 2,000 trees were left over in Grand Rapids.

Department inspectors checked shipments of 869,000 Michigan Christmas trees during the season, the report said. The total of all trees checked, including Canadian trees, was well over 4,700,000.

Despite efforts of the Department's inspectors to cut down pirating of trees, an estimated 90,000 trees were illegally cut without an owner's permission, the report said.

Speakers Cite Needs Of U-M Engineering School

The University of Michigan is in critical need of new research facilities and unless these are supplied the students seeking specialized training in engineering science must be turned away—with a loss to the student and to industry and to the reputation of Michigan's leading institution in scientific education.

This was the message brought to about 30 persons who Saturday attended a luncheon meeting at the House of Ludington, at which Judge Glenn W. Jackson of Gladstone presided. Civic leaders, legislators and U. of M. alumni attended the meeting.

Speakers were C. E. Patterson of the Ford Motor Company's engineering department, and Prof. John S. McNown of the department of engineering and mechanics, University of Michigan.

Purpose of the meeting, one of a number being held in the state, is to direct public attention on the critical need for modernizing facilities for the College of Engineering at the University. A similar meeting with Patterson and McNown as speakers was held Friday at Iron Mountain for the western section of the Upper Peninsula.

Laboratory Needs

Patterson, a graduate of Michigan in electrical engineering and associated with the Ford Motor Company's engineering department since 1945 (currently as manager of the Company's dynamometer division), outlined the problem of inadequate laboratory facilities at the University, illustrating the first part of his talk with sound - movies, operated by Harley Wiseman, supervisor of the administrative services department for the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn.

The immediate objective, Patterson said, is a fluids engineering laboratory to cost an estimated $4,000,000, for which the committee is now seeking legislative approval. This building, according to the speaker, "must be ready for use by 1958, or the University of Michigan must burn away hundreds—perhaps thousands—of young men who will then want this training; who will have the right to get it, and who—if they don't get it at Michigan—will go somewhere else." In that connection, the speaker brought out, other colleges and universities already have improved laboratory facilities to meet the modern trend in research and science, or are building them.

Study Of Fluids

The fluids engineering laboratory is planned as a common unit for all departments of the College of Engineering where research, instruction and close communication of students and faculty can be accomplished. "Every student enrolled in the College of Engineering," Patterson said, "will use this facility during the period of his engineering education. The common facility principle, he added, has been effectively used by industry for many years.

Patterson illustrated the importance attached to the study of fluids by a quotation from Dean George Granger Brown, Dean of the College of Engineering:

"The concern of the entire Engineering College in the study of fluids is perfectly understandable when we realize that the human race lives in a fluid atmosphere. We fly in a fluid with engines powered by fluids. We travel on earth through a fluid on tires filled with fluid and derive our power from fluids. All of our machinery is lubricated with fluids. Every one of us has many miles of arteries and veins which convey a fluid to all parts of our anatomy. Chemical engineers at the University of Michigan have cooperated with medical doctors in the study of the flow of blood and methods of measuring it. Our agriculture depends on the proper supply and control of water. Because of these facts, every one in the Engineering College is concerned with fluids and their behavior."

Under Construction

The first unit in the modernization program, the automotive engineering laboratory, is now under construction on North Campus. This unit was authorized by the 1954 legislature. The automotive unit will replace a seventy-year-old obsolete structure scheduled to be torn down to make room for an undergraduate library. The speaker praised the 1954 legislature for its "forward thinking" in authorizing this replacement.

Patterson said that the College of Engineering, which celebrated its 100th anniversary last year, "has built an enviable reputation and record of service to the state. "Its 22,000 graduates are found in important positions throughout the country and have played a key role in the development of modern industry. Fifteen per cent of Michigan engineering graduates enter the automotive industry," he pointed out. He added that the demand for engineers and other technically trained people in this atomic age would continue to grow, not only in Michigan but throughout the entire nation. He pointed out that the "hopelessly obsolete" facilities are modernized for future enrollment, "the fine record of accomplishment over the years will be jeopardized."

Aid To Industry

In a supplementary comment, Prof. McNown, of the University's engineering research division, first showed slides of outmoded and obsolete facilities currently used at Ann Arbor, and compared them with more modern laboratories at other schools.

He, too, emphasized the urgent need for improvement, not only to maintain the high educational plane enjoyed by the University, but to meet a specific and critical need in industry today.

Concluding, Prof. McNown developed the point that industry today, turning rapidly into the area of nuclear physics, is calling for men with this special type of education and training, and is looking to the colleges and universities to supply the need.

The act establishing Michigan State College was signed Feb. 12, 1885.

U. P. Development Bureau Executive Committee To Meet

MARQUETTE—Members of the Executive Committee of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau's Industrial Board and the Upper Peninsula Advisory Board to the Michigan Economic Development Commission have been invited to a meeting in Marquette on Tuesday Feb. 15, at which progress in setting up an industrial promotion organization within the Bureau's framework will be reviewed.

The session will start at 10:00 a.m. in the Commission Chamber of the Marquette City Hall, following which a noon luncheon will be served in the Hotel Northland.

The morning session, principally for members of the Bureau's Executive Committee but to which members of the other groups have been invited, will be for the purpose of setting up a budget for the coming year, making final decisions regarding advertising, publicity, personnel and supply programs, and review of other Bureau problems.

At the noon luncheon, a group interested in setting up an oil refinery in the Upper Peninsula to tap the oil line running through the region to produce fuel oil and gasoline has been invited to present its proposal.

Following the luncheon, the Bureau's Industrial Board-headed by G. Harold Earle—will meet. Presentation of sub-committee reports are expected at that time.

French Parliament Fails To See Facts Of International Crisis

It is ironical that France, a nation once great but now weakened by internal dissension, has thrown out of office the only strong premier that it has had in many years.

Mendes-France was booted out simply because he was a strong leader. His defeat came on the issue of French policy in North Africa but the issue involved was of minor significance to his defeat. His enemies simply ganged up on him and cast him out. It has been evident for some time that Mendes-France could not long stand off the rising tide of opposition.

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

"I eat rather regularly in one of New York's better restaurants," writes a Westchester (N. Y.) reader, "and I make a point of getting a table fairly close to the kitchen. It seems to me that service is quicker there. A week or two ago I chanced to look up during a lull in luncheon conversation just as the swinging door was wide open. To my surprise I saw a large blackboard just inside the kitchen with quite a bit of writing on it.

"Being of a curious turn of mind, I kept watching as the waiters went in and out and was able to discern that the board carried instructions for the waiters. Number One Out, for example. I realized that meant the restaurant had completely sold out of the specialty numbered One on the menu.

"However, one notation puzzled me. Today's P. M. 4 and 7 it read. I asked the waiter what it meant but he dodged a direct reply and seemed a trifle embarrassed. Can you explain this restaurant shorthand? Does it perhaps refer to the schedule for the evening ('p. m.') meal? Incidentally, next time I lunched at that restaurant, the sign had been removed."

Not "removed," good sir, simply "moved." For the sign you refer to is indispensable to any well-run restaurant. As you guessed, it informs the waiters what dishes are sold out. But it does more; it tells the waiters which dishes they should recommend to their customers—usually the items on which the restaurant stands to make the best margin of profit. These are known as "push merchandise." Now do you see where that "P. M." abbreviation comes from?

So the next time your waiter seems inordinately interested in getting you to order Filet Mignon or Braised Breast of Guinea Hen Sous Cloche, the chances are odds-on that he's following the "P. M." listing on the board in the kitchen.

Are you "turning with the times?" Do you know a "fish black" from a "passion pit?" Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Alben Barkley, so deep in the hearts of his Kentucky countrymen that he was able to make an electrifying political comeback at the ripe old age of seventy-six, owes much of his popularity to his way with a barbed anecdote. His stories are often older than he is, but he tells them beautifully—and besides, he's a celebrity. Celebrities can get away with yarns that would cause a mere amateur to be thrown out of the joint.

Barkley's "That Reminds Me" is liberally stocked with the kind of stories I have in mind. The legend, for instance, that the day he hit 76 he announced, "I feel like a 2-year-old," to which a crony replied, "Horse or egg?" And that Marvin College, where he served as part-time janitor in his student days, erected a sign later that read, "Barkley swept here."

Doctor Discusses Cause And Treatment of Angina Pectoris

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A series of excellent questions submitted by E. B. deal with angina pectoris. These questions do not cover the subject entirely but a discussion of them paragraph by paragraph may be of interest to others besides the inquirer.

What are the symptoms of angina pectoris? The most important are those which come following physical exertion or sometimes emotional stress. Not all are present in every instance but pain over the heart, perhaps extending down the left arm or up towards the chin, is frequent.

WHAT ARE SOME OF the causes? Lessening of the flow of blood through the arteries which supply the heart muscle is the immediate cause of angina. This lessened flow of blood may be the result of deposits of fatty substances or calcium in the walls of the arteries or of spasms of these blood vessels. What causes such changes in some people and not in others and in some earlier in life than in others remains obscure.

Is medication required? It is wise for someone who has angina to have available certain types of medication which they can take if needed. In other words the answer to this question depends on the individual situation.

WHAT ABOUT SURGERY? This is a complex question. Various surgical procedures directly on the heart have been tried. Years ago some patients with angina had their thyroid glands removed with the sible nation in the Western alliance. France has been reluctant to recognize the facts of international life and for some time it appeared that France might actually wreck the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Mendes - France led the fight within France to line up his country in the international defense against Communist aggression.

Since the end of World War II, France has had no less than 20 governments. Is it any wonder that the position of France as an international power has greatly deteriorated?

These are critical days for France, just as for the other free nations of the world. It is unfortunate and it could be tragic that the French Parliament consistently ignores the responsibility of France in a tense world and fails to develop a government that can command genuine respect.

Golden Gloves

Finals Tonight

THE Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament, the 1955 finals of which will be held tonight at Holy Name gymnasium, has become one of the outstanding sports events of the Upper Peninsula. The Escanaba Daily Press is happy and proud to have played a part in developing that reputation.

Amateur boxing is clean sport. Boxing is the world's oldest form of athletic competition. Safety regulations used in the Golden Gloves tournament are among the stiffest in any field of athletics and, as a result, there has never been an injury of any consequence in any Golden Gloves tournament ever conducted here.

As a spectator sport, boxing is excellent. Golden Glove boxers may not possess the finesse of the professionals but when it comes to action, the Golden Glovers are in the top row.

Here in Escanaba the Golden Gloves is the financial responsibility of the Escanaba Lions Club and the Lions use net proceeds to further their own program of charity and community betterment.

If you're athletic-minded, don't miss the finals of the U. P. Golden Gloves tonight.

Today And Tomorrow

By WALTER LIPPMANN

In calculating the risks and in estimating the to the abilities in the Far East, we need an explanation of the fact that both Peking and Washington talk as if the struggle to seize Formosa were a near possibility. Yet, except for the lone voice of Mr. Joseph Alsop, who thinks that the intelligence estimates of Chinese power may be unreliable, the general assumption is that the Red Chinese do not have the military means needed to conquer Formosa. They have no navy and the hundred miles of water in the Formosa Strait are guarded by the most powerful navy in the world. Yet, as Mr. Alsop says, "the Peking Government has been promising its people to take Formosa this year at the top of its voice" and "it is really hard to see why the brilliant Chou En-lai should have engaged Peking's prestige to the very hilt, if the threat to Formosa is a mere vainglorious maneuver."

Mr. Alsop's point is, I believe, well taken. The question then is why Chou En-lai, who has no navy, can afford to talk about conquering an island a hundred miles out at sea? How does he think he can capture Formosa this year, or even next year? The answer to this question, and the answer to many of the obscurities and ambiguities in the whole problem is that Chou En-lai is counting upon the instability of Chiang Kai-shek's regime in Formosa. He could not be promising to "liberate" Formosa soon unless he hoped and believed that the Chinese Army and officials might do on Formosa what was done so often during the civil war on the mainland—that is to say, to change sides and to make peace.

If this is the basis of Chou En-lai's hope, it is the basis of Washington's unceasing fears. No doubt we believe that Chiang's regime is more solid than Chou En-lai is assuming it to be. But a dominating consideration in our whole Chinese policy is the knowledge that the regime at Formosa is fragile and that to keep it going everything must be done to bolster its morale. If the Administration felt sure that Chiang's regime in Formosa were solid, it would not hesitate much longer to recognize it for what it really is—as the government not of China but of Formosa. The block to that policy is the well-grounded fear that the Chinese in Formosa would not settle down peacefully as exiles but would come to terms with the mainland Chinese.

RESTORATION UNLIKELY

The Chinese on Formosa tell us, and Americans who are in close touch with them believe, that Chiang's regime would crumble in disaffection and intrigue if there were cut off the practical hope of a return to the mainland. Whether or not this is the fact, the Formosan Chinese insist on it and their supporters in Washington agree with it. Yet the fact of the matter is that the United States Government has not only abandoned hope of a restoration but has put its decision in this matter in writing in connection with the proposed Formosa pact.

Nevertheless, in Formosa the decision is not regarded as final and conclusive. The speculation is still alive that the United States will be and can be drawn into a great war in which Chiang might be able to return to the mainland. The Administration, afraid that morale might crumble, has allowed the Government in Formosa to nourish this hope. It has at least refrained from dashing it conclusively. This desire to keep up Chiang's spirits by letting him go on hoping for war is almost surely the real reason for the costly and dangerous fuzziness about the off-shore islands. These islands are not part of the strategic defense of Formosa. They are symbols of a conceivable return to the mainland.

BASIC CONTRADICTION

The Administration does not have a clear policy. There is in it a basic contradiction which will in one form or another have to be resolved.

On the one hand, there is the decision not to support an attempt by Chiang to return to the mainland. This decision carries with it the unavoidable conclusion that Chiang's government in Formosa is not the government of China, and that it is not entitled to the Chinese seat in the United Nations.

On the other hand, there is the desire to keep Formosa out of Red Chinese control, and the assumption that the only way to do this is by supporting the Chinese government in Formosa.

The combination of these two decisions would be the policy of the two Chinas, and it would be a feasible policy if only one uncertainty could be removed. That is whether the Chinese in Formosa would stay in Formosa and would not make their peace with Peking. If we could be sure of that, which we cannot, the defense of Formosa ought to be quite feasible.

'Automation' Machines Change Your Life; Take Over Thinking

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Whether you understand the term or not, "automation" is changing your life.

This new phenomenon, which means machines taking over the work of people, is also called "cybernetics."

It's changing the nature of U. S. business and production with the chain reaction of an A-bomb. They're calling automation "The Second Great Industrial Revolution." For instance:

It's a key factor in Ford's battle with General Motors. It's behind many of the recent big business mergers. It's why you can have frozen fruit juice and pre-cooked rice.

It's why auto labor is striking for a guaranteed annual wage.

Beyond industry, automation explains why the White House has cut draft calls. Automation altered New York's skyline. It may prevent—or create—a depression.

Its strange, new, self-generating quality is making automation grow several magnitudes of speed faster than past technological changes.

Some experts are saying that it's threatening to throw U. S. life and trade out of joint in several places, making present sociological and governmental controls obsolete.

Nobody agrees exactly where and when today's automation started. But it has two main elements. One is the fast electronic computer, able to "remember". The other is the "transfer machine" concept of production: moving work from machine to machine on conveyors. Automation can be applications of either one or a combination.

One of the most advanced examples of practical automation is the Bell system's "Direct Distance Dialing," called "DDD," available to 220,000 subscribers and being rapidly extended.

DDD does unbelievable feats without human help. You dial 10 digits. With that information its electronic brain searches the shortest path across the country. There are more possible decisions on what connections it could make than can be printed on this page.

In 15 seconds for a call from New York to Los Angeles, the machine finds the exact phone wanted out of the 15 million available to DDD. There is no interference with the multitude of local and other DDD calls it competes with at thousands of points along the way.

Another astounding feat is the one pause it makes to decide connections between any two points. It checks on whether a possible line was the last one used, and goes to the next if it was. That makes the whole system wear out uniformly.

If there's trouble in the system a light flashes and a card is punched showing its location. And all information for your bill is automatically punched on tape.

The basic electronic feats of this amazing device are duplicated in varying degrees by the fabulous array of new computing machines and office devices revolutionizing business management and office procedures.

Automation has darkened New York office buildings on nights at the end of the month, when overtime used to be needed to wind up payrolls and reports.

For instance, a new Remington-Rand machine is used by General Electric for a special group of 15,000 workers. Hours worked are entered on a magnetic tape in a quick, short operation. The tape is then put into a machine tended by one girl. In six hours checks for all of those 15,000 GE employees have fluttered out, with the chance of error too remote to mention.

International Business Machines itself is as automated as you can get. Each IBM transaction is fed into a machine to tell the plant manager how to schedule production for the next month and to tell the warehouse boss how to coordinate his operation.

In 1940 IBM had 8600 workers and a $44 million volume of business. Now it has 33,000 workers with a $409.9 million volume. Just a pencil shows that IBM's own automation has more than doubled the output of each employee from $51.16 to $12.42.

Thousands of firms including banks, utilities and insurance companies are rushing toward automation.

Prudential Insurance Co. just set a record by renting an IBM system at a fee of $3.8 million per year. In one department it is expected to eliminate 200 clerks. It will compute agents' commissions and calculate risks as part of the dozen operations handled simultaneously.

Commonwealth Edison in Chicago expects to save $750,000 a year with new IBM equipment.

New office machines being developed will file letters, then pull them out and reproduce them on a TV screen on the boss' desk. And one typist will be able to run a battery of four machines putting out various form letters and inserting form paragraphs into special letters.

Computers are also being used successfully to predict future markets, which could help firms prepare to weather a depression. The range of new electronic machines is vast. An electronic heart now does the work of this vital organ during operations.

Then there's the new automatic toll road collector developed by Tallier & Cooper, Inc., which has a camera "eye". If the motorist tries to gyp the electronic hopper a camera automatically snaps a photo of the license plate, lights a light, and alerts a guard.

The contribution of giant computers in research is well known. Uncle Sam uses scores of them for census work, economic forecasting, weather prediction and for a thousand other purposes.

In one day the newest IBM "brain" will do computations ordinarily requiring 1000 mathematicians working a lifetime. Computers took two years off the design time of the B-52 bomber and three years off the design time of the Northrup, long-range "Snark" guided missile. The advanced state of the atomic weapon art would not be possible without batteries of computers working night and day.

A recent result of all of this was the White House order to cut manpower in the services. The new machines of war are now so efficient that they cut down the number of men needed to fight.

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent) WASHINGTON—(NEA) — Most interesting political event on the horizon is the Chicago mayoralty election in April. It has national political importance.

Republican candidate is Robert Merriam, a brother of Charles J. Merriam who is former Democratic National Committee member Stephen Mitchell's law partner. Robert Merriam himself was a Democrat till a couple of years ago.

Democratic machine candidate for mayor of Chicago is County Clerk Richard J. Daley. Refusing to accept the ditching which the Chicago Democratic machine handed him, however, Mayor Martin Kennedy is seeking reelection against Daley.

Governor Stevenson and his former Democratic National Committee Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell are trying to stay out of this Kennedy-Daley fight. But if Daley wins and Stevenson and Mitchell then support him, they will be opposing the brother of Mitchell's law partner.

One angle on this race is that if either Kennedy or Merriam win, it will be a setback for the Chicago Democratic machine, important to ex-Governor Stevenson if he seeks the presidential nomination in 1956. A Republican victory would give Chicago the first GOP mayor it has had since Big Bill Thompson in the 1930's.

The other angle is that a Democratic setback might be a healthful thing in that it would force Governor Stevenson to take the lead for a Chicago Democratic machine cleanup.

CONGRESSWOMAN Coya Knutson (D., Minn.) wrote in her "Capital Chat" to constituents that she and Rep. Edith Green (D., Ore.) arrived at the White House reception together. Congressman Jimmy Roosevelt (D., Calif.) strode by them saying cheerfully, "I see you girls made it here by yourselves."

REP. FRANK S. THOMPSON, Jr. (D., N. J.), gave this report to his constituents on some of the grave issues facing a new congressman:

"This week started off with so many things going wrong for the Thompsons that I thought for a while our bad luck would never cease. I was in Trenton, Monday and discovered first that the oil burner in our house had broken down. The pipes had not frozen, but I nearly froze when I got the repair estimate.

"Things being what they were for me in Trenton, I decided to hurry back to Washington to a more settled atmosphere. I opened the door here only to find my whole family in tears. Hefalump, our dog, was missing. The little fellow was, like I sometimes feel, lost in this great city. We have located him now, and though he's a very sick puppy, he will make the grade. The girls have stopped mourning and are now enthusiastically readying a homecoming which could be as hard on the dog as his accident."

SOME 19,000 U. S. livestock raisers who graze an estimated 9,000,000 head of cattle on 160 million acres of federal government range land will get a pretty good thing out of Bureau of Land Management's new system of grazing fees. It will go into effect in 1957.

Instead of being charged on BLM administrative costs in managing the government range, stock raisers will be charged on the basis of the average price of beef and lamb. The grazing fee may fluctuate two cents either way. When meat prices are down, grazing fees will go down and vice versa.

For 1955 and 1956, the price of 15 cents per month per animal has been set. This is an increase of three cents over last year, but two of the three cents will be spent by the government for improving water holes, fences and trails. BLM hopes to collect an additional $600,000 for a total of $3 million annually under the new system for the next two years. But it will have to spend practically all of it to administer and maintain the range.

AS IF APRIL FOOL'S DAY isn't funny enough by itself, the National Association of Gagwriters—called NAG, get it?—has asked Congress to pin a label on the date by calling it officially, National Humor Day."

A congressional investigation has been proposed by the professional, so-called "funny men." Suggested theme for the investigation is:

"Laugh starvation will face the nation unless we start building a laugh surplus stockpile."

The next thing then will be a proposal to export some of the surplus under a subsidy to Russia, in a laugh Marshall Plan, or double reverse lend-lease.

Since there always has to be a survey before any congressional investigation can get going, the Gagwriters Association surveyed the top 100 comedians. It discovered that none is under 30 and that most are over 60—ready for retirement.

That could explain a lot of things, but the comedians say it is no joke. To them it suggests another line of investigation to discover why there is a shortage of funny comedians.

About the only people who really try to make the little things count are teachers.

COUNTER-COMPENSATION

In the deal below, the bad break in one suit was completely offset by the good break in another suit—had declarer but known it.

South dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

♠ 5 2	♥ A 8 6	♦ 5 4 2	♣ 10 9 8 4
♠ Q 10 8	♥ J 10	♦ 7 6 4 3	♣ Q 5 3 2
♠ N	♥ W	♦ E	♣ S
♠ 6 3	♥ K Q 9	♦ 7 3	♣ J 10 8 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Pass
5 ♠	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's six-spade jump bid was peculiar, to put it mildly—the five-diamond call had not improved his holding. As it happened, however, the slam contract was completely sound.

West opened the ace of hearts and South ruffed. The ace and king of trumps were then cashed—and South did not later complain about that 2-2 break. He was bitter, however, when the lead of two top diamonds disclosed East's stopper. South decided that it would now be necessary to throw his own losing diamond on a long club in dummy, and to that end he cashed the club ace and led the jack. East won and returned the king of hearts. Declarer ruffed and led his club six to the queen. The non-break of clubs was the final straw and there was no way to avoid the loss of a diamond to East.

South did not even get off on the right foot. After ruffing the heart opening he should have cashed only one top trump in his own hand, then led to a trump in dummy and ruffed away dummy's other heart. Next, upon discovering the diamond break, his best chance was to continue with diamonds, throwing East in with the fourth round in hope that East also held the club king. Playing West for the club king involved the hope that the club suit would also break 3-3, whereas the throw-in of East with a diamond would work if East had the club king, no matter how well guarded.

Legislators May Be Sent Out To Peek At Nudist Campers

LANSING (AP)—Rep. Thomas J. Whitnery R-Grand Rapids said he may have to send a subcommittee out in the field to get information on a bill to outlaw nudist camps.

Whitnery is chairman of the Judiciary Committee, which is studying the bill.

"I can't say right now how I would vote on the bill," he said.

"It may be we'll have to send a subcommittee out to one of the camps when it gets warmer."

The bill, introduced by Rep. Peter J. Kelly D-Detroit, would impose penalties on nudists, operators of nudist camps and persons advertising nudist camps.

Be careful that your hollow-ground knife blades do not strike against each other or against other tools so they won't be nicked or dulled, and so the chrome plating won't be scratched. If the plating is scratched, the exposed metal may rust or stain.

WHEN COLDS MAKE HIM CRY — Give Your Baby Relief that DOES MORE THAN WORK ON CHEST!

When a cold makes your child miserable, he needs a medication that does more than just work on his chest. He needs Vicks VapoRub — because it acts two ways at once:

1. VapoRub relieves muscular soreness and tightness, stimulates chest surfaces.

2. At the same time, VapoRub's special medicated vapors also bring relief with every breath.

You can't see these vapors, but your child can feel them as they travel deep into the nose, throat and large bronchial tubes. Congestion starts breaking up. Coughing eases. Soon he enjoys warming relief that lasts for hours.

So when colds strike, use the best-known home remedy to relieve such suffering — Vicks VapoRub.

Sam had the room about straightened out, when the phone rang. He took it off the hook.

An excited voice said, "Are you the friend of Johnny Fletcher?"

"Johnny Fletcher, yeah, him and me are buddies."

"Well, I'm sorry to tell you," the voice went on, "your friend's suffered an accident."

"An accident?" cried Sam.

"He was dashing across Madison Avenue, against the lights, I might add, when he ran directly in front of my car—"

"You mean you're the guy who ran him down?"

"I'm afraid so, but as I was just telling you, it was really his fault. However, I've taken him to my place. It looks like one of his legs is broken and I'm afraid there may be internal injuries."

"Where's he at? I mean, where do you live? Can I see Johnny?"

"I think that would be wise. It's, uh, 1001 Madison Avenue, Apartment C . . ."

In the lobby, Sam encountered Eddie Miller, "I just got a phone call that Johnny's been run down by a car," he told Eddie excitedly. "His leg's busted, or something. I'm goin' over to see him."

Sam tore out of the hotel, signaled to the taxi waiting in the hack stand some yards away. A taxi, double-parked nearby, whipped in front of the other taxi and skidded to a stop in the vacant space in front of the hotel. The door flew open.

"Hop in mister?" said the driver.

Sam sprang into the taxi and it roared away. It was then that Sam discovered there was a man already in the cab. "Oh, excuse me, mister," he said. "I just got word that my best friend was run over and I gotta see him right away . . . 1001 Madison Avenue."

"Sure," said the man beside Sam. "We'll take you there. Leonard, step on it."

The man beside Sam was almost as heavy as Sam and probably several inches taller. He needed a shave, but the growth of beard did not quite conceal some scars on the heavy features.

The cab crossed Seventh Avenue instead of turning and Sam

ber of your room at the hotel?"

"Eight twenty-one."

Sid nodded. He waited a moment, then said pleasantly, "Room 821, please." He waited, then shook his head. "No, there's no message." He hung up. "Your pal doesn't seem to be worried about you. He isn't even at the hotel."

"He's probably out looking for me."

Sid made a gesture of dismissal. "About this bank—what did you call it?—the limping goose bank?"

"One foot's shorter than the other."

"All right, so it limps. Well, that's all we want from Fletcher, the bank."

Sam grunted. "Ain't you got it?"

"If I had it, would we have gone through all this?"

Sam suddenly chuckled. "You mean you two birds ain't the ones who went through our room this morning and swiped the bank?"

Alarm showed on Sid's face. "What's that?"

"The bank's gone. We ain't got it any more. It's swiped."

SPECIAL
MATINEE TODAY
AT 3:00 P. M.

Lake Ice Keeps Fish Tugs In Harbor Here

Ice conditions in Lake Michigan have kept gill netting boats operating from the Manistique Harbor in port the past five days. Normally the six boats operating from the harbor here put out 12 to 25 miles each day, toward the Gull or High Islands, and sometimes the Fix Islands. But ice floes and reefs near the islands and closer in have kept fish tugs anchored.

The catch this year is reported average, ranging from one to three tons for each boat per week. It includes chubs, which are smoked, and some whitefish. There are no trout left in waters here due to the lamprey eel, fishermen report. The daily catch in past months has regularly included some eel here state.

The fish caught here are packed in ice in sheds at the fish dock and then are shipped by express and truck to markets in New York and Chicago. Some fish also go to Detroit.

Boats operating here this winter are owned by Bill Sellman, Robert Sien, Reuben Peterson, Edward and Martin Mathson, of Manistique, the Casey brothers, of Fairport, who operate two, and Warren Bailey of Menominee.

Fishermen are aided here by the Ann Arbor railroad car ferry, which keeps the water open. From the car ferry dock to the fish sheds fishermen keep their own lanes open, using high-powered engines on tugs. Four of the boats here are diesel-engined and two are powered with gasoline motors.

State Police Make Arrests

Two arrests on liquor charges were made during the weekend by Manistique State Police.

Edward Lee Spaulding, 42, of Garden, was given a summons for driving under influence of liquor Saturday night, and John Bourshaw, 27, of St. Jacques was arrested for drunk and disorderly conduct.

Bourshaw allegedly broke a window in a Nahma home, let himself in while a party was in progress, and then hit a woman who questioned his presence in the home.

Ore Research Center At Michigan Tech To Be Ready This Year

HOUGHTON (AP)—Michigan Tech's new Ore Research Center will be ready late this year to start its vital search for new processes for using the State's millions of tons of low grade ore reserves.

Dr. Grover C. Dillman, Tech president, says the Center is "an investment in Michigan's mining future."

The Center will be the first publicly supported organization in Michigan devoted to research on low grade metallic and non-metallic ore reserves.

Programs Expand
In providing funds for the Center, the State may have taken the most important step in aiding the development of Michigan's mineral resources since the establishment of the "mining school" (Michigan Tech) in 1885.

Technicians, using the Center's facilities, will be able to expand Tech's present limited mineral research program.

Tech was established by the Legislature to educate mining engineers for the Upper Peninsula's vast copper range and "to give attention to obtaining and preserving all such information . . . as may be had regarding the mineral resources centers in Minnesota and other northern states have been instrumental in expanding mineral industries."

Mach Undeveloped
Michigan Tech's Center will cooperate with industry and in some cases, will experiment entirely with new concepts of ore dressing in an effort to make profitable the mining of low grade ores. Although geared primarily to research on copper and iron ores, the Center also will be staffed to carry on work with quartz, gravel, feldspar and granite.

But the main problem will be the perfecting of methods to make the mining of low grade ores economically feasible.

Scientists and engineers are faced with the problem of finding ways to separate, cheaply, ore from worthless rock or gangue.

Otherwise a possible 1.7 billion tons of low-grade iron ores may lie undeveloped in Michigan.

Some authorities also estimate Michigan's copper reserves may reach 28 to 45 million tons if the copper ore can be separated economically from useless rock. Only five million tons of copper has been mined in Michigan since the first shaft was brought in the copper in 1844.

Proposed In 1950
Mining companies have established research centers to seek a low cost method of obtaining pure copper from the low grade ores. They enthusiastically support the idea of a state-supported research center.

Government, industrial and college officials proposed the Center to the Legislature in 1950. In August of 1951, the State appropriated $24,000 for land for the Center.

The plans were drafted under the supervision of Prof. N. H. Manderfield, head of Tech's Mineral Dressing Department. The Center will have numerous offices and laboratories in addition to mechanical shops. The entire operation will be controlled from a "pilot plant" consisting of a second floor balcony in the new building and a five-ton service crane. The Ore Research Center will function as an independent division of Michigan Tech.

The Rapid River Rockets are not only a sharp bunch of boys on the cage floor, they also excel in the classroom. Coach Roger Carlson's entire starting five, and the first three reserves on the team, cracked the honor roll. The boys who are all getting B's or better are Bob Olson, Pete Wolf, Jay Huff, Jim Johnson, Bob Hamilton, Wayne Christoff, Larry Paul and Ray Johnson.

BOWLING NOTES—Greg Schils, bowling for the Supervisors in the Harnischfeger Thursday night league, spilled three 125 games for a rare triplicate last week. Sophie Ettenhofer picked up the 5-8-10 split in the K. C. Ladies Minor League on Wednesday night. And the veteran Carl Sawyer filled in every frame, including eight strikes, for a hefty 246 count at the Elks.

Roger Rynanen of Hancock went on a bucket binge Friday night, scoring 21 field goals and 10 free throws for 52 points as the Grem-lins lost to Jeffers 78-74. It's a new Copper Country Conference individual scoring record and Rynanen now has scored 307 points in 12 games.

Art Allen, coach of the sophomore and freshman studded Cooks High School team, has seen some hot shooting lately. In each of his last three games, Cooks' opponent has hit well over 50 percent of its shots from the field. Gwinn, Rapid River and Rock were the villains.

BERRIGAN GOES UP—Holy Name's John Berrigan (No. 9) goes up in the air for a one-hand jump shot against the Munising Mustangs Saturday night. The Crusaders staged a brilliant comeback to score a 66-64 victory with Berrigan scoring 27 points. Attempting to block the shot is Munising's Jim Brown. Crusaders Rally To Nip Munising 66-64 For Eighth Straight Win

The Holy Name Crusaders refused to fold under pressure Saturday night and wiped out a 16-point second period deficit to nip the Munising Mustangs 66-64.

Munising displayed deadly shooting from the opening tipoff and pulled to a 20-14 lead at the end of the first period. Smooth-operating Frank Hamilla pumped in six field goals, missing only twice from the floor, to set the pace for the red hot visitors.

Hamilla continued his sensational scoring in the second period with a dozen more points for a 24 total at the half. Midway in the frame the Mustangs boasted a 34-18 margin over Holy Name but Crusader John Berrigan came clicking and scored eight points in the final three minutes to help whittle the lead to seven points, 42-35, at the half.

Henriksen Turns Tide—Big Arnold Henriksen turned the tide for the Crusaders in the third period with determined rebounding under both boards. Henriksen grabbed rebounds, battled the Mustangs for possession and completely dominated the play under the buckets in the entire third period as the Crusaders cut their deficit to 54-50 entering the final period. Forward Joe Juettin scored a bucket early in the fourth quarter and Berrigan tied it at 54-54 with two minutes gone in the period. Henriksen shoved the Crusaders into a 56-54 lead with a tip-in and Jim Greenwood passed off to Juettin under the basket for a neat two-pointer to make it 58-54. The Crusaders never surrendered that lead in a hectic finish.

Half-way through the last period Juettin dropped in a pair of free throws to give Holy Name a 62-56 lead but Hamilla scored on a field goal and Tom Korpela hit two gift shots to cut it to 62-60.

Crusaders Control Ball—With 1:55 remaining to play, reserve guard Gary Hirn scored two free throws to make it 64-60. Hamilla missed two free throws but Jim DePew hit a field goal with 1:07 to go, cutting Holy Name's lead to 64-62.

The Crusaders went into a stall after DePew's goal and held possession until the 11-second mark when Bill Lancour was fouled by Denis Maki. Lancour missed both free throws but Henriksen leaped up to flip in the rebound for what proved to be the winning basket. Hamilla tossed a desperation shot that swished the nets shortly before the gun to make the final score 66-64.

Berrigan finished with 27 points for his night's work, increasing his total for the season to 342 in 13 games for an average of 26.3 per shot.

Hamilla Scores 30—Hamilla cooled off considerably in the second half in which he scored only three field goals but took scoring honors for the night with 30 points.

Henriksen's 18 points put him next to Berrigan in the Holy Name scoring column.

Munising's accuracy from the free throw line was phenomenal as the Mustangs made their first 14 shots from the foul line and missed only five of 23 for the entire game. The Crusaders outscored Munising 52-46 from the floor but hit on fewer gift shots, making 14 of 22.

In the preliminary the Holy Name Bee team won a 72-39 victory.

Golden Gloves Champions Will Be Crowned Tonight

Twenty-eight boxers from the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin will be punching for Golden Gloves championships and the right to represent the U. P. in the Milwaukee Journal tournament next week when the semifinal and final bouts begin at Holy Name gym tonight at 8:30.

Tonight's scrappers are the survivors of a field of 45 boxers who began competition last Monday night. There will be 17 bouts on the program in the open and novice divisions tonight.

One of the largest crowds in U. P. Golden Gloves history is expected at the big Holy Name gym. Advance sale of tickets indicates a near-capacity attendance.

Because of the heavy concentration of boxers in the 135, 147 and 160 novice classes, boys in those weights will have to fight twice tonight to win a championship. They will appear early in the program for their first fights with winners meeting in the last three fights on the card.

Escanaba will be represented by three boxers tonight. George Hurley, 147-pounder, will face Norway's Jim Casanova, Norway, in the third fight of the night. If he wins that bout Hurley will come back in the 16th bout to face the winner of another novice welterweight battle between Frank Zanon of Caspian and Vern Ollie of Marquette.

Gerald Richard of Escanaba will be fighting for the novice featherweight title against Bud Holmberg. Manistique's defending champion, in the ninth fight of the night.

And in the 10th bout, Escanaba's Vic Sopina will face Vern Coutant, also a defending champion, for the novice light heavyweight crown.

The Escanaba Hawks will face the NMO League-leading Canadian Soo Esquires at the fairgrounds rink Tuesday night at 8:15 in a rescheduled game, originally slated for Sunday, Feb. 13.

The game will mark the final appearance of the classy Soo team here this season. A victory would be worth four big points for the Hawks who are in second place in the standings. Escanaba has made a stirring surge in the league in recent weeks, losing only one of its last nine starts.

The Escanaba Hawks staged a three-goal comeback in the third period here yesterday afternoon to snatch a 5-5 tie with the Calumet Radars after trimming the Copper Country sextet 4-2 at Calumet Saturday night.

The win and the tie gives the Hawks three more points in the standings and makes Escanaba's grip on second place more secure. The Hawks have 17 points, trailing the Canadian Soo's 26.

Calumet took a 3-2 lead here in the first period and then added two scores in the second to hold a comfortable 5-2 margin going into the finale.

Hawks Stage Rally

But the Hawks turned on a terrific spurt in the third period in which they completely dominated play. First Almo Muhonen dented Calumet's goal after a sustained attack on Clyde Berryman, narrowing the deficit to 5-3 at 3:39. Next Joe Ricci slammed in a high hard one from near the blue line to catch Berryman moving the wrong way and it was 5-4 at 8:49. And at 16:04 Mark Olson whipped in the tying goal after taking a short pass just inside the blue line from Steve Butorac who had swiped the puck from Calumet's John Dahlgren. Although showing the effects of their long trip to Calumet Saturday, the Hawks played rugged hockey to get the tie with the Radars yesterday.

They hammered shot after shot at Berryman but the classy Calumet net-minder was never in better form. He kicked out 19 shots in the first period, 17 in the second and 13 in the third for a game total of 49 saves, some of them out of this world.

Ben Artwich had tougher luck in the Escanaba goal. He had comparatively little business with 10 saves in the first period, nine in the second and six in the third for a total of 25.

At that, Artwich brought roars of approval from the stands by stopping solo scoring threats by Owen O'Brien and Fred Barry in the second period.

Fistic Flare-Up

Two players scored all of Calumet's goals. O'Brien clicked three times in the first period and Bob Makolin twice in the second.

Joe Nogalo and Olson scored Escanaba's first two goals in the opening period.

The rugged game was highlighted by a fistic flare-up between Warner Wilson of the Hawks and Calumet's Dahlgren in the third period. Both served five-minute fighting penalties.

The Hawks return to Northern

Marquette and Manistique, with six fighters still in competition, are leading contenders for the tourney team title won last year by Escanaba. The American Soo has five fighters in the finals, all of whom advanced on byes last week.

Included on tonight's card are three open division championship fights. They will pit Manistique's Harry Nelson, last year's 118 pound novice titlist, against Billy Feldt of Marinette at 133 pounds; Brian Mastaw of Soo, last year's novice welterweight champ, against Cal Johnson of Manistique at 160 pounds; and Ted Fellman, novice middleweight champ two years ago, against Arnold Graboyes of American Soo at 175 pounds.

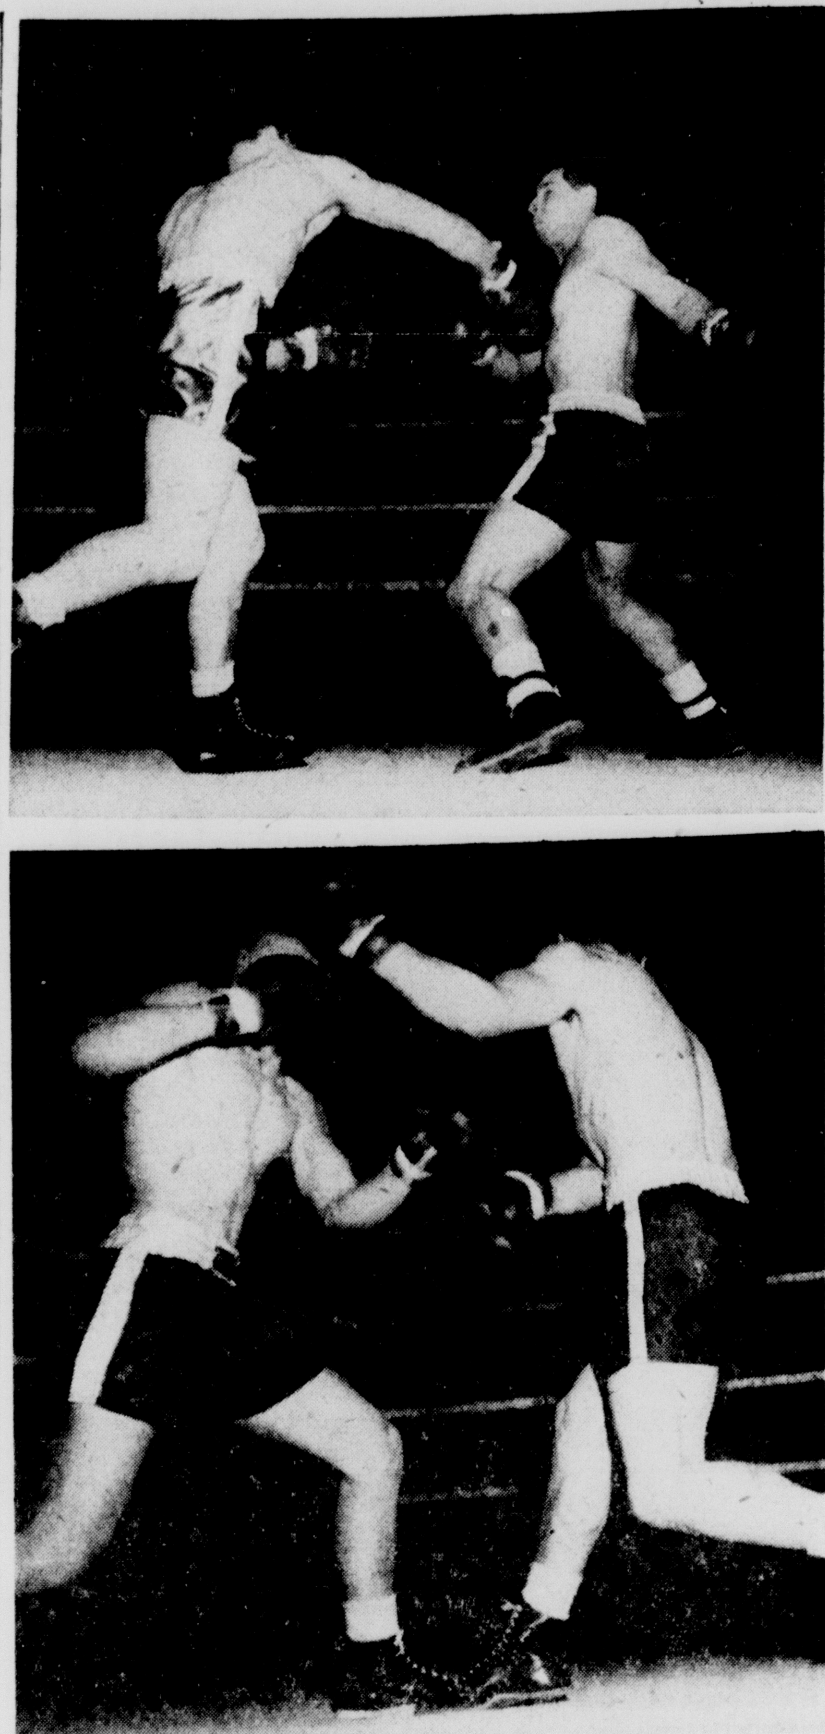

After tonight's fights there will be eight novice champions in addition to the three open division champs. All will advance to the Milwaukee Journal championship tournament at the Milwaukee Arena Tuesday night, Feb. 15. Open division champions from that tournament will move on to the Tournament of Champions in Chicago.

One championship has already been determined, Harvard Lancour Manistique's capable featherweight, is unopposed in the open division.

Considerable interest has developed in Mastaw, the Soo's heavy-hitting open middleweight who was the outstanding novice boxer in the tournament last year. Little is known of his opponent from Manistique who is a 6-4, 160-pounder who has not seen Golden Gloves action here in the past. He is 24 years old.

One of the feature bouts is expected to be the 175 open battle between Fellman and Graboyes. Fellman was sharp in scoring a second round TKO over Sgt. Garfield Krahling of Calumet last week. Graboyes, a member of the U. S. Coast Guard, drew a bye on the opening night.

Manistique has four fighters who will see action tonight, Norway has two, Negaunee one, Canadian Soo one and Caspian one.

FISTIC ACTION—Action in the above pictures will be repeated in the semifinal and championship bouts of the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournament tonight at Holy Name High School gymnasium. The bouts will get under way at 8:30 with 17 fights on the schedule. In the top picture Joe Morin of Marinette starts a wide left hook at the head of Conrad Letson in a 147 pound novice bout. Below, Jim Brown of Escanaba, at the left, aims a right hand at the chin of Frank Zanon of Caspian in a novice welterweight fight. Zanon won a split decision. (Daily Press Photos)

Eskymos Host Braves In Tuesday Contest

The Escanaba Eskymos will be seeking revenge for a lopsided 82-39 defeat in a previous match when they entertain the Gladstone Braves at the Junior High gym Tuesday night at 8:30.

Coach Jim Betchek's Esqy quint will also be seeking to keep its home court record unblemished. The Eskymos have won all five home starts this season and have an overall record of seven victories and five losses.

Gladstone has won four in a row and nine against three defeats for the entire season. Bee teams will open action in a 7 o'clock preliminary game.

Two Ties Played In Hockey League

Two ties resulted from weekend action in the Escanaba junior hockey program.

The Northtown Rockets, moved up to the Junior League from the Juvenile loop, knotted the Ice Cadets of Northtown 2-2. Beaver Lancour and Bob Stropich scored for the Rockets and Gary Bernstein and Bill Redman for the Cadets.

In Midget action the Southside Hurricanes and the Southside All Stars tied 8-8.

With Jim Brown and Dwayne Marenger scoring four goals each the Central Puckchasers beat the Ice Cadets 11-4 in a Junior League game. George Peterson scored twice for the losers.

Schedule:
Tonight — Hurricanes vs. All Stars at 7. Wednesday—Southside Hawks vs. Rockets at 7. Thursday—Puckchasers vs. Ice Cadets at 7. Saturday—Hurricanes vs. All Stars at 1 and Puckchasers vs. Rockets at 3.

Johnny Sain of the Yankees pitched in 39 games last season. All were in relief.

Perron Auger First In K-C Doubles

Wilma Perron and Louie Auger took first place in the Knights of Columbus mixed doubles bowling session Saturday night at the K. C. alleys with a 901 total.

Bob Molloy and Amelia Molloy were second with 855 and Helen Brown and Al Houle won the booby prize with 532.

The affair will be held once each month in the future.

With reserve guard Don Anderson setting a six-point scoring pace in the third period the Emeralds took a commanding lead, 48-32, entering the final period. Reserves played most of the fourth quarter for Manistique.

Scoring was evenly distributed for the Emeralds with Anderson hitting 12, Ed Bernier 10, Bob Corson and Bob Hastings 11 each. McColl took scoring honors for Soo with 21.

Ishpeming Jumper Wins National Championship In Snow-Bound Tourney

LEAVENWORTH, Wash. —Rudy Maki of Ishpeming, Mich., leaped through a stringing swirl of snow Sunday to win the national ski jumping championship in a tourney marred by numerous spills.

One of the tumbles cost the defending Class A champion, Roy Sherwood of Southbury, Conn., a chance to repeat. Others took such prominent jumpers as Art Devlin of Lake Placid, N.Y., and Keith Wegeman of Steamboat Springs, Colo., out of the title running.

Leaps of 270 and 259 feet won for Maki, whose excellent form earned him 221.6 points. Second at 220.3 was Art Tofke of Chicago.

A new fall of wet snow made the tree-bordered Leavenworth hill sticky. During the jumps the stuff turned to shot-like pellets which peppered the faces of the high flyers.

Reuben Hamari of Iron Mountain, Mich., was seventh with 192.6 points on two leaps of 227 feet and Dick Rahoi of Iron Mountain finished eighth with 192.3 on jumps of 224 and 229.

After seven jumpers fell on their first tries, the Class A survivors were content to shoot for points instead of distance. Sherwood was the only one to fall on the second trip, losing control when he leaned too far forward on landing.

whose first effort of 273 feet was longest of the day for the Class A jumpers. He added a 247-footer to that.

Ansten Samuelstuen of Steamboat Springs was third with 219.3 points, only a tenth of a point ahead of Clarence Hill of Ishpeming, Mich., the 1954 runnerup.

Despite the stickiness of the hill, a 17-year-old Seattle boy, Ragnar Ulland, whipped out a 284 - foot jump. This was in a special event, however, not counting in the nationals but earning him the "Apple Blossom Championship." He took only one jump.

Fans Forget Nielsen As Santee And Dwyer Stage Rasslin' Match

NEW YORK — Save a little sympathy for Gunnar Nielsen. He deserves it.

The Copenhagen pressman held the world indoor mile record today, but his fine performance—4:03.6, which shaved two-tenths of a second off Wes Santee's week-old mark—has been all but lost in the shuffle.

In fact, it is safe to say that not more than a handful of the 14,736 spectators who jammed Madison Square Garden for the Milwaukee Games Saturday night, saw him break the tape.

There was a better performance going on behind him. Santee and Fred Dwyer were engaging in a lively rasslin' match.

Dwyer got the decision, breaking out of Santee's hold to cross the finish line behind Nielsen. But the judges disqualified him and Santee was awarded second place.

"I want another crack at him," Dwyer said. He'll get it this Saturday in the New York A.C. Games.

Santee repaired to his native habitat, Kansas.

Nielsen? He's not interested.

"I have discovered now the secret of beating Santee," he said. They're now even in four races.

Here is what happened in the mile climax:

Nielsen Takes Lead
Santee appeared to be on the way to breaking his own mark until Nielsen came on from third place to pass him on the turn leading into the home stretch. Wes went wide to fight off the Dane and Dwyer tried to sneak in on the inside.

Santee moved back into his pole spot when Nielsen shot past and in the process shoved Dwyer right off the track. Fred hopped back on the track but Santee grabbed Dwyer's shoulder, and Fred retaliated with a bear hug.

Then the two danced around it appeared that Dwyer might toss Santee right into the boxes.

Dwyer finally broke loose and staggered across the line ahead of Santee and Bob McMillen of the armed forces.

"I shouldn't have been disqualified," scowled Dwyer. Santee shrugged it off, terming it an "unfortunate incident."

Higgins Is Optimistic With Boston Red Sox

By MIKE HIGGINS

Manager of the Boston Red Sox DALLAS, (AP)—I am optimistic about our chances next season. We have been unable to make a trade that we thought to our advantage but even so I believe we will be stronger than in 1954.

It seems to me our main weakness last year was in the infield and on the mound. I expect improvement. Pitching, as everyone knows, is the heart of a club. Mel Parnell, our ace, should be back in shape.

Frank Sullivan, and Tom Brewer, who did so well in their freshman year, should do even better because they have a full year of big league competition under their belts. Dick Brodowski is out of the service and it's possible that we can find some help from the four pitchers coming up from Louisville—Ivan Delock, Tom Curtis, Hershel Freeman and George Susce.

I look for Milt Bolling to get back to where he was in 1953 as a shortstop.

We have added Billy Klaus and Owen Friend, two of the best infielders in the American Association, as well as Norm Zachary, who drove in 118 runs at Louisville.

Right now it looks like Billy

Goodman will be our regular second baseman but I've got an open mind there when it comes to Billy Consolo and Ted Lepcio. It could be I may have to do some two-platooning.

My outfield is set off if Ted Williams chooses to return. If he returns, my outfield will be Williams in left, Jimmy Piersall in center and Jackie Jensen in right.

The catching will be well taken care of by Sammy White.

Fish Drop Off; 'Tar' To Blame?

Smelt production in Little Bay de Noc waters, starting last Wednesday, dropped to practically nothing—and commercial fishermen of the area are blaming the city of Escanaba for permitting "tar" to run into the bay, according to Art Servant of Jensen & Jensen Market.

Servant reported today that fishermen now were averaging only between 100 and 200 pounds of smelt, where the take previously ranged from 1200 to 1800 pounds per day. The catch dropped off last Wednesday and is still off, with the fishermen "so disgusted they are not even lifting," Servant reported.

According to the fishermen, said Servant, "several hundred thousand gallons" of tar went into the bay from the city storm sewer. The farther out in the bay the nets are set the better the fishing, he said, but there are practically no fish being caught closer in. Servant said he did not know if the city had been notified of the difficulty, but he added that the Chamber of Commerce had been informed.

City Manager A. V. Aronson said the first he knew of the fishermen's difficulty was a fisherman telephoning him at midnight, to complain about the condition.

Investigating, the city manager reported that he was told that about 2,000 gallons of "oil water" went down the storm sewer at the intersection of 1st Ave. N. and 8th St., where the old gas plant buildings are being dismantled. Frozen water and oil in the gas holder thawed when exposed to the sun and some of it ran into the storm sewer, he said.

City Engineer Loren Jenkins could find no trace of the oil water in the bay at the storm sewer outlet, according to the city manager.

Amazing Financial Recovery Of North Central Airlines Told

H. N. CARR

to suggestions and assistance from the employees—pilots, mechanics, station personnel, etc. One group offered to take a pay cut; some station personnel volunteered to work a week without pay. Neither offer was accepted by Carr. "If the company can't pay the going rates, it shouldn't be in business," he said.

Called In Creditors

Carr's first step was to call in the company's major creditors and ask them to go along with him for at least three months. He told them if they would support him, they would be paid in full before the end of the summer. They agreed and were paid at the rate of three months on account every month. Since August, the airline has been completely current with all its suppliers.

Carr then put into effect so wide an expense reduction that it was felt in every phase of the North Central operation. Menominee and other stations felt it. Out at the Menominee airport, North Central's teletypes which operate from 5 a. m. to midnight were using reams and reams of teletype paper. Carr suggested curtailing from triple to single spacing. Now, the Menominee station uses in two days only as much teletype paper as it previously used in one day. It may sound like penny-ante saving, but multiply the Menominee experience by the 32 stations on North Central's system, some of which operate teletypes around the clock and in a year's time, the cash outlay for paper would amount to something.

Costs Sharply Reduced

The expense cuts since Carr took over have knocked North Central's costs for its 18 plane DC-3 operation from $1.24 a mile in March to under 97 cents at the end of the year, probably one of the most outstanding cost-cutting records in the industry. These were due to three factors, he says. They were — use of scientific management techniques, increase in scope of operations, and cooperation and suggestions of the employees, who are doing a better job at less expense.

Sewage plant operators from several towns in the Peninsula will take examinations for certification at Escanaba on Tuesday, Feb. 8. According to Russell L. Johnson, district engineer for the Michigan Department of Health, the persons to report are those who made application to the state board of examiners and were declared eligible.

Similar examinations were given at Escanaba last year, Johnson stated. Successful candidates later received a certificate, signed by the state health commissioner, indicating their qualifications for operating a sewage treatment plant in Michigan. The successful candidates in the Upper Peninsula were Merrill Froey, of Marquette; Dayton Kelan, of Negaunee, and John Fazer Jr., of Powers.

The written examinations on Tuesday are to be given at several cities throughout the state. Those in Escanaba will be held at the Webster School and start at 9:30 a. m.

Beaches there are few and rocky. Tides run from 16 to 18 feet. Sabins said loading time would be cut to only six hours daily.

Much heavy equipment must be moved over the Tachen beaches. The Nationalists were dug in with heavy equipment for a long stay.

Nationalist sources estimated at least 41,688 regular troops, guerrillas and civilians were on the Tachens, Yu Shan and Pishan.

Chiang Kai-shek's 46th Division, about 10,000 troops stationed mostly on upper Tachen, will be brought to Formosa.

Soldiers Redeployed
There were indications 4,000 guerrillas on the Tachens would be taken to Matsu and Quemoy after a stop on Nanchishan Island, 80 miles south of the Tachens. Such a redeployment would be carried out by the Nationalist navy with the U. S. 7th Fleet covering only withdrawals to Formosa.

Most of the 15,000 or more civilians were on Lower Tachen. Sources said most had signed up to leave.

Chinese press reports said Nanchishan would be held as a "northern shield for Formosa." About 5,000 troops were reported stationed there.

Yu Shan, a small island group the Reds have attacked repeatedly, has about 500 civilian fishermen and 850 guerrillas.

Pishan, a base for past Nationalist raids on the mainland 12 miles away, has 2,400 guerrillas and 1,173 civilians.
